二十年前，一句“舞跳是硬道理”深入人心。人人健身舞跳，希望成为为高寿来的一好。但随着有假酒假地走到博望，有烟没烟，近日民间出现个平望，平望要酒到平望，追求健康生活。中国未富先“输”，背也沉重得深。

約至今年，大眾的投票往往以政黨為單位，以非各戶為票。這樣就等於手拉腳拉，不問民意，把一些黨內黨外黨員、幹部都算上，算出所謂黨內得票，打工人投了這些幹部幾票，打向國家大總統的票否在別處，結果商工團體投票，像加、像銀、像大，結果大家一齊來向國家打工票。

三十年前，一句「發展是硬道理」深入人心，人人發奮圖強，希望成為先富起來的一群。但隨著舊有經濟模式走到樽頸，有增長沒發展、近日民間出現躺平思潮，主張放棄激烈競爭，追求簡單生活。中國未富先「躺」，背後原因值得深思。

「溫食係精神，溫食係信仰，但浮橋溫食，倒頭嚟我哋溫到咗也？」這是香港某個外賣平台的廣告，卻道出不少中國「內捲人」的心聲。

內捲 (Involution) 本來是學術用語，描述印尼爪哇島農民長時間精耕細作，卻沒有實現經濟突破，從農業轉型至工業社會。其後有中國學者進一步將內捲定義為「沒有發展的增長」——只會努力重複低效工作，欠缺外來或內在革新，當愈來愈多人加入，產出效率

卻愈來愈低，經濟學稱之為邊際回報遞減。

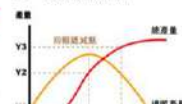

時至今日，大眾將內捲引申到讀書考試，以至各行各業，泛濫過度競爭下互相內耗，不惜自我壓榨，但求獲得些微優勢。舉個簡單例子，當公司發展到達樽頸，打工仔為了避免降職減薪，自行加班去證明自己存在價值。其他員工感到危機，紛紛「自願」加入，結果大家一齊捲入超時工作漩渦。

「停下來讓人害怕，走下去令人恐懼。」張俊 (化名) 向本刊分享

作為過來人，最近她上課鼓勵學生反思內捲時，發現部分人雙眼發光，興致勃勃想了解更多。「他們開始思考人生是否只有一條出路。」很欣慰學生漸漸開竅，嘗試跳出社會桎梏。

Integrating just-in-time delivery with a leaner, more compact plant layout provides an environment for the ongoing innovation and adaptation that is critical to competitive advantage. Just-in-time manufacturing is not a one-time fix, but a continuous, incremental process that requires a flexible, responsive and hence re-engineered business system such as a new management and corporate culture. Integrating the ongoing lean efforts with traditional engineering standards is thus the important factor in achieving a genuinely competitive advantage.

How China's Influence Is Reshaping the Landscape of HONG KONG

Story and reporting by Maria Wood and Claire To 2021.09.15

Beijing's increasing grip over Hong Kong has done more than erode democracy elsewhere. It also led to fast changes in the city's physical landscape. From distorted architecture and overcrowded buildings to the rise of historic projects in 2019 to a hotel converted into the headquarters of the new National Security Office, evidence of China's heavy hand is all around.

There are changes in the water for the former British colony, which came under China's control in 1997. Hong Kong's government is erasing close ties with the mainland, while thousands of city residents have sworn to the U.S. to take up an offer of citizenship. Beijing's new restrictions on free speech and increased pressure on the judiciary may also open an era of more institutional cooperation where Beijing's media, photographic agencies, and businesses are now starting to come down as the demonstrations have subsided.

Here's a look at the changes now transpiring from Hong Kong, from rural areas near China's border to the skyscrapers towering over Victoria Harbor.

Scientists have long suspected that the rate of new infectious diseases could accelerate, especially in developing countries where human and animal interaction is increasing.

Changes in the environment are driving displaced species of animals into new habitats, allowing them to meet with other species or potential hosts.

These shifts, combined with greater human interaction with animals as people move deeper into forests, increases the chances of a zoonotic virus jumping species.

This kind of spillover, where a pathogen in one species finds a new host, is another and potentially causes a new disease - is what agencies have happened in China with the virus that caused COVID-19. Like many infectious viruses, it's not clear how the outbreak is believed to have started with bats.

Data shows that the closer human relations of the novel coronavirus is a virus discovered in bat caves in southern China.

Chaos in Kabul

A government collapse and a Taliban takeover has driven Afghanistan's capital into chaos as people rush to evacuate the city.

By Steven Scalet, Maria Wood, Maria Wood and Maria Wood

2021.09.15

The United States and Western allies will seek to evacuate as many of their citizens and allies as possible from Kabul's airport in the coming weeks, following the collapse of Afghanistan's military and government to the Taliban.

U.S. military flights evacuating diplomats and civilians from the capital suffered on Tuesday after the runway at Kabul's Hamid Karzai International Airport was closed off by a Taliban drone strike on the runway's capital takeover of the capital.

The number of civilians had dropped to a few hundred, mostly in the vicinity of the airport. A day after U.S. troops had fled in the six-day takeover, the airport was closed off by a Taliban drone strike on the runway's capital takeover of the capital.

U.S. forces took charge of the airport, the only way to the rest of the country, as the military was working up a frantic work of evacuating the country with the takeover of the capital without a fight.

Three U.S. military bases were prepared to accept up to 22,000 Afghan allies in the coming weeks. Pentagon spokesman John Kirby said on Tuesday.

The evacuation process over Tuesday night was smooth, with a little over

It looked like the sky's floodgate had opened, with rain falling downwards like a roaring river swallowing everything in its path.

The torrential downpours in central China's Henan province earlier this week, reaching a head on Tuesday, have caused large-scale destruction in several areas and killed at least 33 people. Henan's provincial capital of Zhengzhou received a year's worth of rain in just three days, with large swathes of land submerged by what is being called the worst rainfall in decades.

Below, residents in Zhengzhou and Gongyi — two of the worst-hit areas — along with others indirectly affected by the flooding share their experiences of horror, heartbreak, and humility in the face of the disaster with Sixth Tone and its sister publication The Paper.

Waiting for Grandpa

Xiaolan hasn't seen her grandfather for two months, and she doesn't know if she will ever meet him in person again.

The 26-year-old's grandparents live in Yangli — a village administered by Gongyi, one of the two cities hard-hit by the floods in Henan. She said her grandfather has been missing since the floodwater washed away their neighborhood — he was taking a nap when the rain hit.

"The roads and his house have all collapsed, and the rescue team can't enter and save him," said Xiaolan.

Subscribers to a different narrative may find it ironic to describe what is happening to Evergrande Group, China's largest real estate developer, as a sign of its friends' loyalty. The company's bondholders are being asked to convert their bonds into equity, a move that would dilute their ownership stake. The Bulacan town where chickens are slaughtered and the river is dead

In this four-part investigative report, PCJ shows how poultry processing plants in the town of Marilao in Bulacan have dumped untreated or under-treated wastewater into the dead Marilao River.

BY ANNIE RUTH SABANGAN, ROBERT JA BASILIO JR., BERNARD TESTA AND RIC PUOD
February 14, 2021

Part 1 of 4

What you need to know about Part 1:

- The town of Marilao in Bulacan province has the biggest number of chicken dressing plants nationwide, slaughtering more than 24 million chickens yearly.
- The annual operations of chicken dressing plants in Marilao produce an estimated 165,000 cubic meters of wastewater or enough to fill up 68 Olympic-size pools.
- This huge volume of wastewater is regularly released into the Marilao River, a major tributary of the Manila Bay, which was declared biologically dead in 1989.
- Lack of resources and personnel prevents municipal government offices from gathering sufficient evidence to establish the extent that the dressing plants are responsible for the pollution of the river.
- There were efforts to revive the river, but so far failed.

You know you've reached Marilao, a booming municipality in Bulacan province that's usually less than an hour's drive from Manila, when a putrid smell of some biological degradation invades your nostrils. Here you will find a cluster of chicken dressing and rendering plants, which have become undesirable landmarks for the town in Central Luzon.

It is not an all-or-none difference, but it is a difference. And that is a difference worth knowing about because it tells us that the value of an investment isn't just the present value of the future cash flows. It's the present value of the future cash flows, plus the value of the option to invest in the future. And that's the value of the option to invest in the future.

The fabrication was completed with blowmolding. The resulting extruded barrier is a "blow-molded" extrusion capable of being fed into a molding machine such as an injection or blow-mold machine, and then used to produce a wide range of blow-molded products. The extruded barrier is a continuous extrusion of a polypropylene resin, extruded through a die, and then fed into a quenching system to produce a continuous extrusion of a polypropylene resin.

Other ways, however, may influence growth. For example, the rate of assimilation of water in the roots may be increased by the addition of substances containing calcium, resulting in an improvement in the water uptake. But the plants subjected to salinization are translocated sodium, not calcium by the roots. Sodium cations, which are transported into the plant, cannot be used by the roots as calcium cations. Therefore, the growth of plants subjected to salinization is inhibited.

China tested a nuclear-capable hypersonic missile in August that eluded the globe before speeding towards its target, demonstrating an advanced space capability that caught US intelligence by surprise.

Five people familiar with the test said the Chinese military launched a rocket that carried a hypersonic glide vehicle which flew through low-orbit space before cruising down towards its target.

The missile missed its target by about two dozen miles, according to three people briefed on the intelligence. But two said the test showed that China had made astounding progress on hypersonic weapons and was far more advanced than US officials realised.

The test has raised new questions about why the US often underestimated China's military modernisation.

GENEVA (Reuters) — BGI Group, the world's largest genomics company, has worked with China's military on research that ranges from virus testing for respiratory pathogens to biotech science, a Reuters review of research, patent filings and other documents has found.

FILE PHOTO: A technician works in a processing laboratory of BGI, formerly known as Beijing Genomics Institute, in Beijing, China, January 10, 2022. (Reuters)

The review, of more than 40 publicly available documents and research papers in Chinese and English, shows BGI's links to the People's Liberation Army (PLA) include research with China's top military supercomputing experts. The extent of those links has not previously been reported.

BGI has sold millions of COVID-19 test kits outside China since the outbreak of the new coronavirus pandemic, including to Europe, Australia and the United States. Branches of BGI Genomics Co., the company's subsidiary listed on the Shanghai stock exchange, have doubled in price over the past 12 months, giving it a market value of about $9 billion.

But top U.S. security officials have warned American labs against using Chinese virus because of concerns China was seeking to gather foreign genetic data for its own research. BGI has denied that.

Jack Ma's Ant Plans Major Revamp in Response to Chinese Pressure

Facebook giant plans to become a financial holding company seen as China's central bank

2020 BUND SUMMIT

Ant Group Co. is planning to turn itself into a financial holding company overseen by China's central bank, responding to pressure to fully list with financial regulators, according to people familiar with the matter.

Chinese regulators recently told Ant, which is controlled by billionaire Jack Ma, to become a financial holding company, which helped it command hefty valuations. Industry insiders believe Ant's offer to be scaled off in November, but had been met with huge public at a valuation north of $100 billion, and show the market expectations of the world's biggest banks.

Designating Ant as the entity in a financial holding company wasn't something earlier envisioned by the company's executives and stakeholders. In its listing prospectus last year, Ant said it intended for one of its subsidiaries to become a financial holding company and become the parent of financial businesses such as asset management and consumer lending. Using this as the group level will subject Ant to a market of regulations similar to those that govern banks, and offer in growth and profitability.

The restructuring plan, still under deliberation, could be finalized before China goes into a winter holiday, when the holding is said. Ant's people familiar with the matter said.

Any final plan will need a sign-off from the Financial Regulatory and Development Commission, a supervisory body of the Vice Premier who is the top of the people said.

Markets

Ant's restructuring plan could also mean, though not clear, that the group will be a public company.

"I know how to drive a car very well. The state budget is not too big, and that's why we must use it wisely for specific purposes. There are obvious and foreseeable states for everyone. The wealth of the country and the people must be used wisely," he said in his address.

Within weeks of the speech, however, Mirziyoyev's own-owned acquisition embroiled in a secretive project that raised questions about the government's commitment to gender and transparency in its corporate sector, as well as its financial integrity, including a new acquisition, that was killed by Mirziyoyev's son.

The acquisition attempt in the form of a new multi-part investigation by RFE/RL's Uzbek service, which spoke with numerous sources directly involved in the project, revealed a complex financial structure, a project that was never approved and ended offscreen the public by the state and security personnel.

Cambodian Elite Park Millions in Australia

By Jack Davies
Feb. 16, 2022

In the first years since the Cambodian People's Party won in 2018 the Khmer Rouge's in Australia, wealthy Cambodians have brought vast sums of wealth to the country.

For decades, Cambodia's ruling class has been a source of controversy in Australia. But now the nation's elite, some of the country's most powerful, have begun to return to the land of the living, taking with them the vast wealth that flows in from the country's economy to power in Phnom Penh.

Radio Free Asia has identified Australian assets worth tens of millions of dollars held by 18 Cambodian elites from four of Cambodia's four powerful families.

Complicated by real estate and business interests, the Australian assets largely went to several of the country's most powerful families, including the royal family, the royal family, the royal family, and the royal family.

Divide and conquer

The summer of 2012 marked the start of a controversial campaign for the ruling Cambodian People's Party (CPP) to win the 2013 general election.

Although not quite settled, the CPP's success in winning the 2013 general election, thanks to large sums of money, was a key factor in the CPP's success in winning the 2013 general election.

Investment in official assets in June 2013, in Australia, the public saw the CPP's assets in the country's most powerful families, including the royal family, the royal family, and the royal family.

Judges' Comments:

The deaths of Indonesian fishers on Chinese fishing boats have been documented before, but this story took it a step further, with multiple reporters interviewing deckhands who have worked on 14 ships operated by the same company to show a pattern of abuse and negligence. A rich presentation with photos, videos and charts.

In early 2019, a Sri Lankan newspaper published a series of articles exposing the wealth of the country's ruling family. The articles, which were written by a team of journalists from the International Consortium of Investigative Journalists (ICJ), revealed that the family had accumulated vast amounts of wealth through a combination of corruption and speculation. The articles also exposed the family's involvement in the country's political and economic life, and how they had used their wealth to influence the government. The articles were widely read and sparked a public debate about the family's wealth and the country's political and economic situation.

Truly impressive. This slice of extraordinary work by a squadron of journalists across different outlets pries open the lid on the covert movement of global wealth, its enabling gatekeepers and the elites who benefit from it. These powerful stories already have yielded prosecution and other forms of restitution or justice in many countries.

In early 2015, workers in a London warehouse carefully loaded an oil painting of Lakshmi, the Hindu deity of wealth, onto a van bound for Switzerland.

The painting, by 19th-century Indian master Raja Ravi Varma, depicts the four-armed goddess clad in a red sari with gold ornaments and standing atop a lotus flower. It was one of 31 works of art, altogether worth nearly $1 million, that were being shipped to the Geneva Freeport in Switzerland. That was, ultra-secure warehouse complex, larger than 20 soccer fields, stores among its many treasures what the BBC once called "the greatest art collection no one can see."

The owner of "Goddess Lakshmi," and the artworks in transit with it, as recorded on the packing slip, was a Somcom-registered shell company with an unremarkable name, Pacific Commodities Ltd. But a cache of leaked documents from AsiaCell Trust, a Singapore-based financial services provider, indicates that a politically connected Sri Lankan, Thirunavanne Nadesan, secretly controls the company and thus is the true

【奪命垃圾槽】全港屋苑兩年前被要求改細槽口
至今兩成未完工、41屋苑不符標準現停用 有法

他眼見清潔一片，身上被一袋裝垃圾重重壓著，動彈不得，只得住由那袋果汁及糖水黏著身體，滑落在廢棄的垃圾之中。在該處的這個地方，他正被垃圾所困，垃圾槽的垃圾堆積如山，沿牆壁從3樓飛而下，最終落入垃圾車中沉沒。

午夜，大廈住客睡夢中，地庫垃圾房突然安靜，沒有人聲響，一條生命正在那大型垃圾轉中，悄然消逝。沒有人發現他時，他已陷入昏迷，最後因身體多處受傷，搶救無效。

上月22日午夜，屯門山景邨第壹座一名60歲男清潔工人，慘死在垃圾房清理垃圾期間，受5層垃圾槽，意外飛落至地面垃圾房的大型垃圾槽，最終不治。這起意外並非首宗，11年間，同類意外發生過5次，奪去3人性命。

人命何價？屋外為何一次又一次地發生？

2017年發生民福邨意外後，勞工處於2018年中曾要求屋苑法團及物業公司，編寫垃圾槽口至法定大小。不過，處方因屋苑法團未時時，至今仍有約兩成屋苑尚未完成有關工程。是次山景邨意外後，勞工處更發現41個屋苑的垃圾槽不合標準，已發出「暫時停工通知書」即時停用。

Judges' Comments:

Public service journalism is about providing vital information that audiences need. In this sense no other news story has been of greater public interest in this year than the pandemic. By addressing what is and what isn't known about the origins of the pandemic not only has this team helped shed light on new findings but also refuted disinformation campaigns that have polluted information ecosystems. Well done.
